

2019 ROLLING STONE

Review Summary

96 pts – “A riot of berries, violets, mulch and Madagascar vanilla makes you take note. Every time you take a sniff a new aroma emerges, coffee, leather and tobacco. The palate is structured, bitter chocolate oak tannins rib around the core, setting it up for a great life in the cellar. This is too early to drink, and its potential is mind-blowing.”

*Gabrielle Poy, The Real Review
19 January 2024*

94 pts – “The brooding 2019 Rolling Stone offers powerful aromas of blackberry, violets, ink and dried herbs with a strong backbone of French oak. Richly flavored yet compact and controlled with muscular tannins, expressive gravel/blackberry flavors are now lifted by a touch of cedary development, suggesting this is more medium than long-term proposition..”

*Angus Hughson, Vinous
16 May 2024*