BDX
MALBEC / CABERNET PETIT / VERDOT

Review Summary

94 pts - “Ripe cherry, plum, floral perfume and baking spices. It’s kind of juicy in the cherry and redcurrant department, but fresh and spicy too, with a nutty and meaty character, a little seaweed and dried rose, with firm stony tannin trailing on a pretty long finish. Brisk, a little chewy, but delightful, and quite different. Should age very well too.”

93 pts - “Almost opaque at the core, moving into a deep ruby-red at the rim. Mulberry, cedar wood and mint aromatics. Dark fruits fill the palate, then tangential lines of choc-mint and bresaola bring contrast and savoury complexity to the experience. It sits bold with equally drying tannins, making you take notice of its presence. Time will be your friend with this wine.”

91 pts - “Youthful and open, the nose smells of cassis, baking spice and toast. The attack is broad across the palate... a sturdy body and concentrated, layered fruit. Liquorice, graphite, turned earth, a touch of funk and blackberries infuse the palate. Drink now–2028.”
